Good evening,

This week has been another busy and exciting one for the children!

In English, we reached the end of our class novel, The Adventures of Odysseus. The children took part in a creative freeze-frame activity, bringing key moments from the final chapters to life. They also wrote a short narrative describing Odysseus' return to his homeland and the dramatic events that unfolded in the feasting hall. In Mathematics, the children have been learning about multiples, completing a range of engaging activities to develop and strengthen their understanding.

In Design and Technology, the children put the finishing touches to their Ancient Greek masks by painting them. The finished masks look absolutely wonderful, and the children should be very proud of their creations! The children also completed their final fencing session this week, proudly achieving their Bronze Certificates—a fantastic achievement! In addition, they enjoyed a fun and competitive dodgeball session with Coach Owen, developing their skills and teamwork along the way.

Looking ahead to the half-term break, there will be no homework set on Century Tech this week. Instead, please could the children continue to practise their words for our class assembly on Wednesday, 11th November, at 9.10 am. It is important that they feel confident with their lines so that we can look forward to a fantastic performance!

I would also like to remind everyone to work on the mini Ancient Greek project over half term. Information about the project was shared at Parents' Evening, and I have also sent an additional text message explaining what is involved. I look forward to seeing the children's creative ideas and the wonderful work they produce!

The children who achieved the certificates this week are: Ivy, Halliah, Joel, Willow and Darin

I hope you all have a lovely and restful half-term break!

Warm regards,

Mr Yates
